ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

With respect to image data generated by plural kinds of eye fundus cameras, device information used for image pickup is added to picked-up-image information, and different image processings such as image reverse and aperture synthesization are performed based on the added device information.